SERVIA SUBMITS TO AUSTRIA'S DEMANDS THUS AVOIDING WAR

Vienna, July 25.—The intenseness of the Austria-Servian situation was relieved by Serbia formally announcing its submission to Austria's note.

Vienna, Austria, July 25.—Shortly before 6 o'clock the Austria-Hungarian minister at Belgrade presented a note to the Servian foreign office saying the Servian reply was unsatisfactory. The Austria-Hungarian minister and the staff of the legation then left Belgrade.

Budapest, Hungary, July 25.—Special editions of the newspapers announced this evening that Serbia has unconditionally submitted to the demands of Austria.

Berlin, Germany, July 25.—According to semi-official information received here, Austria today showed an inclination to adopt a more moderate attitude towards Serbia.

Vienna, Austria, July 25.—An extension of time of 48 hours in which Serbia may reply to Austria's note was received by the Russian charge d'affaires. There was a marked improvement on the hours here on a report that Serbia had yielded.

Berlin, July 25.—Although the of the Austrian government by 6 o'clock tonight, the horizon of Southern Europe, the opinion prevails in high circles today that there would be a peaceful adjustment.

Europe is feverishly agitated because of the far-reaching consequences of an open break between Austria and Serbia, but there were evidences that England was preparing to step into the breach as the pacifier.

The suddenness with which the development has all but covered almost the entire horizon of Europe, and it has been years since there was such a lively exchange of diplomatic telegrams between the capitals as took place during the past twenty-four hours.

One of the greatest developments in the action of the Austrian government is in notifying the Austrian minister to Serbia to leave Belgrade and the entire legation staff if Serbia would fail to deliver a favorable answer before 6 o'clock this evening.

The ultimatum by Emperor Joseph, a final recall of the Austrian troops to Serbia would mean a complete break in the diplomatic relations between the two countries.

Such a step is a usual preliminary to a declaration of war.

At present, at least, the conditions have taken sides. Germany will undoubtedly lend her support to Austria in compliance with the obligations entailed by the alliance.

As has already been given open expression, other nations respect to the other nations in respect to the Serbian crisis.

TURNER FLAYS COX ADMINISTRATION

Sandusky, O., July 25.—In a speech before the County Agricultural Society here Prosecuting Attorney Edward C. Turner of Columbus, candidate for attorney general on the Republican ticket, flayed the Cox administration as being the most extravagant in the state. During the fiscal year ending November 15, 1913, Turner said the Cox administration cost $14,707,624 compared with $6,437,480 spent during the last year of Governor Herrick's administration.

Cox's statement that the Warnes law is saving the people large sums was declared by Turner to be misleading.

Thirty-four assessors did the work this year where it took 93 last year. To the uninformed man this would seem to be a big saving, but what are the facts:

"These 93 assessors had to complete their work in 30 days and cost the state $8,793, while the 34 Warnes law assessors referred to by the governor had four months for their work and they received $10,908 pay."

Caillaux.

A peculiarly French atmosphere was lent to the affairs by the quarrel of the judges which added to the poignant contents of the love letters whose recital before the public caused the prisoner to fall unconscious and remain for a long time in a swoon. Beyond the reading of the letters little progress was made and it was generally expected that the trial would last far into next week.

Pomerene Offers A Trade Amendment

STOPS CHAIR WITH JAW, NEGRO NOW IN HOSPITAL

Stopping a chair with his jaw, William Stamper, alias Jones, 26, of Ringold, Va., lies in the Hampstead hospital with the jaw bone broken. The fellow who swung the chair with such deadly effect is Sam Johnson, also colored, of the North End.

According to the police, the victim, a strange negro in the city, tried to take possession of Johnson's home in the North End Friday night. Johnson objected and picking up a chair sent it crashing against the alleged home-intruder's jaw. The police ambulance took the victim to the hospital. Johnson was not arrested as eye-witnesses claimed that he struck the man merely to protect his home.

Suit On Contract

Suit to recover a balance of $243.85, alleged to be due them on a contract to erect and install a sand elevator for the defendant, was filed Saturday morning by Attorney J. P. Purdin, representing the Webster Manufacturing company, of Tiffin, Ohio, against W. F. Seymour of this city. The plaintiff company claims that it entered into a contract with the defendant to do the described work on July 11, 1912 the contract price being fixed at $1042. It is further claimed that later modifications of this contract increased the amount to $1243.85.

The company then admits having received in payment the sum of $1000, $500 on October 19, 1912, and $500 on November 19, 1912, but alleges that it is unable to collect the balance, $243.85, the amount for which it asks judgment.

Thompson Accused Of Abusing Brother

Humane Officer Harry Ball, of this city, was in the vicinity of Mr. Joy Friday, investigating a complaint that had been registered against Crate Thompson, an eighteen-year-old young man residing near there, who it was alleged, cruelly beat Ed Thompson, his fifteen-year-old brother. Judge Ball found that the complaint was well warranted, and filed an affidavit in Squire Kates' court at Tardun, charging cruelty. He received as a surety before he left that the accused young man would enter a plea of guilty. The elder brother became injured because Ed stayed longer at a neighbor's house than he thought he should have stayed, and upon his return, it is claimed, he beat him until his back and legs were black and blue. The boys are the sons of Joe Thompson, who is blind. Judge Ball also attended to some mother's pension matters in Squire Kates' court at Tardun, after making the round trip of sixty miles on his motorcycle.

Will Sellards May Manage Campaign

There is a strong likelihood that William Sellards, energetic young independent Republican of this city, will have charge of the management in Sevier county of the campaign of Hon. Frank R. Willis for the nomination for governor. Former Sheriff William Sellards, who has charge of Willis' campaign in the state, and who remained over in Portsmouth Saturday morning, is understood to have suggested the idea to Mr. Sellards, who is not adverse to taking a dip in the political game. Sellards' success in arranging for Willis' coming here Friday after more experienced politicians had passed it up, made a bit with Congressman Willis and his lieutenants, and they feel very kindly toward him for the interest which he took to make their stay in this city a profitable one.

MAYOR WELL PLEASED WITH CONCRETE FILLER

Mayor Frick arrived home late Friday night from Cleveland, leaving Service Director Tierce, Safety Director Lake, and City Engineer Wilhelm to continue the tour of inspection of paved streets in Toledo and Columbus Friday and Saturday. Contractor Gilbert Monroe, whose firm has the contract for all contemplated paving in this city, is with the party.

WE DEMAND AN EXPLANATION.

We are possessed this evening with a feeling of deep and bitter resentment that refuses to be appeased by any explanation or apology, and we are going to hold some one to dire account for this revivification of our naturally sweet and forgiving disposition.

Here we saw by the news columns of this valuable and accurate family journal over whose destinies we provide that the Hon. Frank B. Willis, Republican candidate for governor, was to be frank, backed and side-swiped by a brilliant galaxy of local oratorical stars when he made his debut in our esteemed midst at the Washington hotel Friday evening. "Roy McElhenny, Mark A. Crawford, candidates for congress, and others, are also to make five minute talks," so the item said. We did not know, but we somehow assumed that behind the deceitful phrase "and others" was concealed the modest, meek and dearly beloved friend of a certain honored friend, now an aspirant for senatorial honors, ready to emerge at the psychological moment!

Now we know of course that we had no business buzzing around and about a single star Willis have fust or funeral, whichever it might be, but never, no never, could we be so cruel as to overlook the opportunity to honor by our presence the oratorical flights of those justly famous and beloved sons of Portsmouth, McElhenny, Crawford, "and others." Could we ignore them? Could we? No, a thousand times No!

And so, carefully garbed in purest white from head to foot in a suit imported at great expense from Panama and expressly reserved for some such occasion, we wended—get that word?—our way to the palatial lobby of the Hotel Washington, where in a secluded corner we stood through the Willis effort, waiting in delighted and blissful expectancy for the real show of the evening. Others might be there to honor Willis, we were there solely in cheer and to applaud the Honorable McElhenny, the Honorable Crawford and the Honorable "And Others."

Joyful anticipation dulled our appreciation of the frying given our honored governor by the gentleman who would like to sit in his place. We felt impatient at the moments he consumed, and welcomed his impassioned peroration with ill-concealed relief. As the last word rolled sonorously through the electric atmosphere, we leaned forward expectantly. At last the moment had come! Who would be the first? Would it be the plain and lowly son of toil, the peerless and peerless McElhenny? Would it be the stately and cultured new born leader of the Grand Old Party, the calm, confident and serene Crawford? Or would it be the smooth, velvet retiring "And Others?" Which would it be?

Eagerly we cast our eyes about the lobby. Over there was Crawford, thoughtfully running his tapering fingers through his bovine locks, eyes upon the chairman of the meeting. Yonder stood the comely form of George Ditty, campaign manager for McElhenny, hand slightly poised as if to give a signal, and we knew that the noble McElhenny was concealed somewhere near, ready to be "surprised." Scattered about stood the conscious forms of "And Others," a little but fearful. Well, would it be?

Then something happened. Whether by accident or deep confusion, we know not, but the chairman of the meeting, and the gubernatorial candidate between them, did something that smothered to smithereens the well laid plans for an oratorical field night. Totally ignoring the favorite head sons, the Honorable Willis was rushed from the platform with the first announcement that the speaking for the evening was over and that Willis wanted to shake the hands of every one present before they escaped from the hotel. Was ever murder more cruel, more unadvised for? For one, we indignantly then and there and we are still indignant. We even loudly called for McElhenny, for Crawford, for "And Others," but in vain. It was not to be. Their lights had been extinguished.

Of course there was some consolation when the Honorable Crawford footballed his way through the crowd and usurped the function of chief introducer of the Hon. Willis. We clinked up a little when Willis, looking down upon us from a great height, cried, "Bless your dear soul, my boy, I'm mighty glad to know you." And we felt almost cheerful when a considerate friend accounted for the remark by saying that we had burst upon the Willis vision like a white raven, straight from Paradise. We even tried to yank glowing, sad faced George Ditty out of the embrace of John W. Evans and take him over for the Hon. Crawford to introduce him to the may-be next governor.

But today as the glamour of the "Bless your soul, my dear boy" fades away, our indignation rises again. We want to know, and we want to know right away, why was it that and who done it?

A few months at a school of expression might do George Fred Williams more good than one would think, if he does not care to heed the advice of an aristocratic physician.

The Mexican situation has not yet had the finishing touches put to it, but it is on its way, and so far much American blood and treasure have been saved. There is surely something encouraging in that.

With beef coming up by jumps we are settling almost on the honor to go down and lay a fish and let the morning be del. Ty Cobb.

That appropriation to erect an embassy of the United States at Mexico City surely does not include the monument and decorations.

Surely those public representatives who voted the twenty cent mileage are in favor of paying it out to the railroads at the same rate. The railroads are entitled to it, for was it not voted for this purpose?

ITALIAN IS LURED TO A LONELY SPOT AND BEATEN TO DEATH

The dead body of an Italian, whose identity has not been learned was found eight miles east of Greenup near what is known as Chinnville, Saturday morning.

The Italian had evidently been beaten to death, robbery being the motive of the parties who killed him. Sheriff McArthur of Greenup was notified of the finding of the dead body by C. & O. employees and is at working on a clue.

It is said that the Italian, who was murdered was seen with two men last night and it is thought they lured him to a lonely spot and took his life for the money he had on his person.

The Italian's head was crushed, a blunt instrument of some sort being used to crush his life out. The dead man, according to Greenup parties, who viewed the body, was about 30 years old. He was clad in a blue shirt and a pair of overalls when killed.

A gang of Italians have been living in huts near Chinnville. They have been working for the C. & O., it is said.

There is a crying demand that there be legislative peace throughout the country so that business people may find where they are at. And on the other hand, isn't it best to get through with the plan early so that there will be no more worry and bother?

We feel sure that the statistical report makes it clear that New York City pays more than one-half of the cost of the war, and there are now hopes that it will pay all of it in the next year or so as its westerners are fast catching on how to make a profitable report.

Answer Filed.

Dr. S. R. McKerrigan of this city, one of the defendants in an action brought in common pleas court by Ruhama Wilson, through his attorney, Joseph R. Coates, filed an answer and cross petition Saturday morning, in which he admits every fact stated in the petition except that "he has refused to make a statement to the plaintiff of the amount claimed by him." On the contrary, he avers that he has been ready and willing to make such a statement upon reasonable assurance of a settlement of same.

He further says that the mortgage which he holds upon the property described in the original petition was executed to him on January 16, 1896, by Martha Corbett and her husband for the sum of $650.75, and was given for deferred payments of the purchase price of the property, amounting to $825.

On March 31, 1898, he says that $300 was paid on that balance, leaving a balance now due him of $150.75, which he claims with interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum. He asks the court for a decree establishing that claim.

FIRE ORIGIN A MYSTERY

The origin of the fire that wiped out three dwellings in New Boston is still a mystery. Mrs. Freyermuth in whose home the fire started returned from a visit to McDermott Friday night. She cannot account for the origin of the fire as she left no fire of any kind in the house when she left.

Alva Freyermuth left the house at five o'clock Thursday afternoon but he did not have any use for fire during his visit home. The loss to the contents of the Freyermuth home was fully covered by insurance to the amount of $600. The Albert Olsson family and Jasper Culp families who saved most of their household effects, have moved to new homes on Rhodes avenue.

Say Some Swapped

Local members of the Progressive party are making the claim that some of the members of the reception committee which met Congressman Frank B. Willis at the N. & W. station Friday evening were only recently members of the Progressive party, and have signed the petition of Arthur L. Garfield and James Garfield, for the Progressive nomination for United States senator and governor, respectively.

NEW BOSTON

Five happenings of sensational nature have occurred in the village during this month. Only a few days after the Fourth of July a fire visited the village and caused $30,000 damage, wiping out five of the village's largest business houses. On last Sunday morning a would-be safe blower was discovered in the act of blowing the safe in the Ben Emmanu saloon. Tuesday came the arrest of Mayor J. S. Davis. A second fire, causing a damage of $300, paid a visit to the village Thursday evening, while Friday night brought the arrest of Deputy Marshal Martin Hall on a charge of striking Clifford Counts with intent to kill.

Work on the two new moving picture theatres is moving along very slowly. The heating and ventilating system has been installed in the Rudy Kuntz theatre by Contractor J. M. Cullum. The ticket booth is being constructed by Contractor John M. Williams. The last of the roofing was put on Saturday afternoon. The first rough roof on the Mayor J. S. Davis theatre was completed Saturday.

The Village All Stars will meet the Cubs from the city Sunday morning at the park. The Cubs are under the management of one of the former All Stars. It will be the first time these two teams have met on the diamond.

WILLIS COMES AND GOES, MEETS REPUBLICANS

Candidate Given A Cordial Reception By A Large Crowd

Congressman Frank B. Willis, of Ada, candidate for the republican nomination for governor, was a guest of Portsmouth Friday evening as per advance notices and presented his claims for preferment to a throng of republican voters. In spite of the fact that Mr. Willis was almost an hour behind time, due to the late arrival of his train and other causes, a comfortably large crowd waited for his coming, and gave him a very cordial greeting.

The size of the crowd which greeted the candidate and the nature of his reception during the evening apparently pleased Congressman Willis, who repeatedly expressed himself as gratified with the outcome of the informal meetings held during his stay in this city. Prior to his arrival at the hotel, he addressed a large body of G. A. R. veterans, Sons of Veterans, Spanish-American War Veterans, and others assembled on the sidewalk near the corner of Findlay and Gallia streets, going directly there from the railroad station.

All difficulties had been ironed out among the party leaders, on the surface at least, and it was a representative party gathering that assembled to see and hear the distinguished congressman. There was nothing to indicate that any difficulty had been experienced in perfecting arrangements for the meeting, which took on the nature of a Republican jubilation. Some of the prominent local leaders were conspicuous by their absence, but there were enough of them from opposing factions to rid the affair of the appearance of a factional gathering.

The train on which Congressman Willis arrived pulled into the station over a half hour late, which caused a delay in the arrangements throughout the evening. With the Ada candidate as so stepped off the train were former State Auditor Ellington, Thomas Williams, former sheriff of Delaware county, Attorney Mark W. Crawford of this city, who met the party in Columbus, and Sherman A. Cline, news editor of Upper Sandusky, Ohio, who is touring the state with Willis and acting as his press agent.

The party was met at the train by a reception committee composed of Judge James W. Bannan, Henry T. Bannan, William S. Bannan, James Finney, Philip W. Bannan, Harvey Allen, County Auditor Thomas C. Patterson, and Charles C. Kearns, of Bannan county, who was in the city all day Friday.

Congressman Willis was driven to the Bannan machine to the G. A. R. headquarters on Gallia street, while the other visitors were taken at once to the Washington hotel to be ready for the coming of the main attraction. In the party which accompanied Willis to the G. A. R. meeting were Henry T. Bannan, Mark W. Crawford, and Charles C. Kearns.

Upon his arrival there, Congressman Willis found a goodly number of the G. A. R. veterans, Sons of Veterans, Spanish-American War veterans, and others assembled on the sidewalk awaiting him. The joint meeting of the patriotic societies had not yet started several minutes before.

After a few moments later, the Washington hotel, Willis was met by a large crowd which thronged the sidewalk in front of the hotel and the lobby inside. It was fully five minutes before he Bailey Post, G. A. R., who referred to him as a man who throughout his entire career, had been the soldier's friend, and had at all times, stood firm on all questions in which the soldiers had been vitally concerned.

At the outset, Mr. Willis thanked the veterans for the honor they had bestowed upon him by waiting so long in the intense heat, and assured them that he deemed it a high privilege to have met them and addressed them. He said that more satisfaction came to him from the fact that he was considered a loyal friend of the old soldiers than from anything else he had attained in public life.

"Not that I deserve any special credit for standing by the old soldiers, for had I not done so I would never have been able to go back home and face my old father, now eighty years old, who fought with the Boys in Blue back in the sixties."

Local admirers of the candidate hustled him inside, where he was at once urged for a speech. Chairman Sam M. Johnson of the Republican executive committee, mounted the steps leading to the balcony to introduce Henry T. Bannan as chairman of the informal meeting. In a brief speech, in which he prophesied Republican success throughout the state this fall, Mr. Bannan presented the gubernatorial candidate to the audience assembled.

Willis Grateful To The Crowd. Again, Congressman Willis started out by expressing his appreciation for the consideration shown him by the crowd in remaining until such a late hour in the intense heat to hear him. He attributed it, he said, not to his own personal popularity, but to the fact that the people of Ohio were aroused to the need of a change in the administration of state affairs.

Thanks Outlook Is All Right. He added that such an expression from the people augured well for Republican success all over the state at the coming election. "All over the state, there is a cry for the return of the principles of the Republican party in the administration of affairs in the State and Nation. The people are anxious to return to the good old system of reasonable protection in order to restore confidence and replace the present period of depression with an era of prosperity. The industrial world has lost confidence in the Democratic party. The same results are in evidence as before when our opponents were put in power. There is a strong call for the return of Republican rule, so that business will be restored."

"Everywhere I go I find the sentiment to favor a change in the administration of state affairs. Regardless of my own candidacy, I am confident that the nominee of the Republican party, whoever he is, will be triumphantly elected. I have nothing to say against my opponent. I do not know anything to say against him, and wouldn't say it if I did. But who ever he is, everybody will be out working for him, and he will be backed by a united party."

Paying Attention To State Matters. "Voters of this state at this time are paying more attention to state matters than to national issues. The main question is whether the people are willing to continue in power the rule of an autocratic political boss. It is ridiculous to claim that the people who are able to elect their United States senators are not capable of managing their own local affairs."

"I want to be governor, but I want to be governor of the state under the constitution of the state. I want you in Scotch couples to send a representative to the state legislature who is capable of representing you, and I will promise that if elected governor, I will not try to do his work. Over 100 years ago, the vital question of representative government was founded on the proposition that the people were able to manage their own affairs, elect their own tax assessors, and the like.

Promises Are Made. "If elected I promise to do all in my power to restore the government of this state as it was originally intended, and deliver Ohio from the control of a Tammany political machine."

Congressman Willis spoke less than five minutes, and his remarks were enthusiastically applauded. He has a pleasing, resonant voice, backed by unusually strong lung power, and his speech could be plainly heard to the extreme edge of the large lobby.

At the conclusion of his address, the Ada candidate plunged again into a handshaking campaign, meeting personally every voter in the lobby. Attorney Mark W. Crawford, candidate late for congress, took him in tow, and introduced him to every one present. Practically every candidate living in the city and some of them from the rural districts, were present and mingled with the voters, taking advantage of the opportunity to put in a few good looks for themselves.

Contrary to the announced plan, the Congressional candidates did not speak at the hotel, and the audience was deprived of their bursts of oratory. Congressman Willis stated after the meeting that this tour over the state at this time was to meet the voters and not to make speeches. He promised to press a vigorous speaking campaign over the state after the primary campaign was over.

Reception At Hotel. The Ada congressman remained in the hotel lobby until a late hour, meeting the people and discussing the local situation with his supporters here. The bulk of the crowd thinned out soon after the speech, but many of the interested ones remained until Mr. Willis retired. In the number was a large group of Ironton Republicans and supporters of Willis, who came down in automobiles to swell the crowd at his reception.

To A Timesman after the meeting, Mr. Willis expressed complete satisfaction with his chances and seemed confident that he would be returned the winner at the party primary in August. He was also gratified at his reception here, which he claimed far exceeded his expectations. In part, he said:

"After touring over half of the counties of the state, I find the get-together movement among Republicans, Progressives, and Independent Democrats growing by leaps and bounds. In fact, it is not growing, it has already grown to the extent that Republican victory at the polls next November seems assured."

Thanks His Chances Good. Asked concerning his own chances, Mr. Willis said:

"From the reports and assurances of support that I have received all over the state, my nomination is practically certain. You may say that I am perfectly satisfied with my chances. Also that I was more than pleased with my reception in Portsmouth. It was more than I had expected on such short notice."

Mr. Willis has a big following among the former students of Ohio Northern University at Ada. They are rendering me great service," said he. "Regardless of party, they seem to be all for me. Even the girl students are using all the influence in their power in my behalf. I was told of a man who first hesitated about signing my petition, but shortly returned and said that his wife was a former student at Ada and she insisted upon his signing the petition."

Several of the Ironton party were former Ada students, and the balance of them met Willis when he appeared as lecturer at the Lawrence county institute a few years ago. They claim that Willis will carry Lawrence county by a vote of 10 to 1. In the party from Ironton were W. J. Mahoney, candidate for Congress against the present incumbent from the Tenth District, Robert Switzer, County Commissioners Brook Copper and T. C. Hays, Attorney H. M. Edwards, County Auditor S. A. Bowman, C. H. Moore, editor of the Ironton Register, E. L. Mayberry, deputy county engineer, and Attorney O. E. Irish.

Spent Night In Portsmouth. Congressman Willis spent the night as guest of the Washington Hotel, and left early Saturday morning for West Union, where he is booked to address the Chautauque, Saturday afternoon. He was accompanied by Attorney Mark W. Crawford of this city, who is also down to speak there during the afternoon. At Winchester, the party was met by a reception committee in automobiles, who escorted them for the remainder of the journey. Congressman Willis being booked to make several short speeches along the route.

VISITS NEGRO WOMAN AND IS GIVEN A FINE

Over the earnest protestations of innocence on the part of the accused, James Enlet, a young white farmer of the West Side, was convicted in Mayor Frick's court Saturday morning on the charge of visiting Mrs. Willis Underwood's home on Fourteenth street for immoral purposes. Enlet was caught in a raid made by Chief McCarty Thursday afternoon, but no mention of the arrest was made until Saturday morning, when Enlet was arraigned before the mayor.

At the time the arrest was made Mrs. Underwood, who is a stylishly dressed colored woman, was in the yard of her home, while Enlet was sitting on a chair inside the house. Both claimed that his visit was merely a friendly one, their acquaintance starting when both were going to the same school on the West Side. They both admitted that Enlet was a frequent caller at the Underwood home, sometimes when the husband was home, and again when he was at work.

Willis Underwood, the woman's husband, engaged in a lengthy tilt with the mayor, during which he stated that Enlet was a friend of the family and that he was a well-

Open Air Services At Bigelow Sunday

The service at Bigelow church Sunday evening will be held on the church lawn. The hot weather is holding on so steadily that it was thought best not to attempt a service indoors. Rev. Hughes will speak on the subject, "The Wet and Dry Fight in Ohio." Some of the questions to be discussed are: Who brought on this fight? What does the wet petition call for? What will result if it carries? What does the dry petition ask for? What should our churches be doing?

The sermon will be illustrated with about forty slides showing in a graphic manner some interesting results of the use of liquor. The history of temperance legislation will also be given. Miss Bertha Staiger will sing a solo.

By having the service on the church lawn it will be cool and pleasant. Comfortable chairs and seats will be provided. There will be room for a number of automobiles to stop within hearing and seeing distance.

This will be the first of a series of six Sunday evening open air services which Rev. Hughes will devote to the campaign. Each service will be illustrated with views and music will be furnished by the Bigelow brass band. In case the weather should be inclement on any evening the service will be held in the church. The general public is cordially welcome to all these services.

The morning services will be held as usual tomorrow: Sunday school at 9, followed by preaching service at 10. The theme for the sermon in the morning will be, "The Boy Who Dreamed." This service will be but one hour in length. Special music will be rendered by the choir.

Advices Warring Couple To Wed

One case in police court Saturday morning had an unusual finish, when the mayor dismissed an affidavit against William Eckels, colored porter at a local shoe factory, charging him with pocket picking, and advised him and his accuser, Mary Shelton, also colored, to repair at once to the office of Probate Judge Beatty and secure a license to wed. The mayor went so far as to agree to perform the marriage ceremony.

From the evidence of the girl herself, it developed that she loaned Eckels $2 with the thought that he would return that amount to her. When he refused, she had him arrested. He bought the girl a pair of shoes, for which he paid $2.50, and that the $2 was appropriated as part payment on them. The couple exchanged loving glances at each other during the hearing, which showed that there was still a spark of love burning within them for each other. This is what prompted the mayor to hand out the advice mentioned above, which, however, was not heeded by the couple.

Mr. Arnold of Dayton will speak on the above subject at the Grand. This is a topic fitting in well with the discourse at Grand Finale of Photo Drama. Those who heard the speaker of Tuesday will now be much interested in learning something of what God's Plan is. Many seem to think God has no Plan, but is taking things as they happen along and makes the best out of them He can. This is not the scriptural thought. God has a positive Plan, pre-conceived and pre-ordained which He is working out according to the counsel of His own Will. What is this plan? Can we get a knowledge of it? Yes, the Bible is full of it, pointing out clearly its outworkings and its fulfillment. Mr. Arnold will point out these scriptures to you giving you many positive proofs of a Great Plan. ### BANNON HITS BACK IN JUDGESHIP FIGHT, GROWS SARCASTIC

Another chapter was added to the local Republican scrap over the candidacies of Judge William H. Middleton and Judge Festus Walters for the court of appeals Saturday, when Hon. Henry T. Bannon gave out an interview in reply to the interview with Hon. Charles E. Hard, which appeared in The Times of Friday evening.

Like Mr. Hard, Mr. Bannon is very pointed, and at times personal, in his remarks. There is no doubt as to what he means nor as to his attitude.

Mr. Bannon's statement, which he said would be the last word from him on the judgeship fight, so far as he knew now, is as follows:

"Mr. Hard had no right to drag me into the trouble he has stirred up between Judges Walters and Middleton merely because a meeting of the Republican Executive Committee was held at my office. I did not call that meeting. I did not know a meeting was contemplated until the secretary of the committee called me by telephone and asked if the committee could use my office as a place of meeting. I did not prepare the resolution. It was prepared by Hon. A. T. Holcomb, but I voted for it and believe in it. Mr. Hard is simply playing politics for the people of this community—and mighty cheap politics at that."

"Under our Constitution, the Court of Appeals is not only a non-partisan tribunal, but it is the court of last resort. Its jurisdiction is final as to the liberties and property rights of the people. The Constitution has exalted this office above politics. Two most excellent judges are candidates for that office. I cannot in all the praise bestowed by Mr. Hard upon Judge Middleton, the same praise is equally merited by Judge Walters. Both are upright judges and competent men. Between two such men it is for the people to make a selection, but along comes Mr. Hard and edits in the Central Committee. He is not a member of the committee. He knows that proxies are unlawful. Yet with a handful of proxies, a politician, who has no right to take part in the deliberation of the committee, tells the committee to tell the people how to vote for judges. The executive committee does not believe in such methods and adopted a resolution condemning them. Mr. Hard does not want people made judges. He wants politicians made judges."

"The reasons assigned by Mr. Hard for favoring Judge Middleton are unique and characteristic. They are:

"1. Judge Middleton cannot get by in his home in the county of Pike. This is a libel on the county of Pike. He has the confidence of the electorate of Pike county."

"2. Mr. Hard wants to save person. The first is a roy McElhane, Mark A. Crawford and Dr. Tremper from the grasping clutches of the Pike county Republicans. Simply absurd."

"3. Mr. Hard wants to cement a lasting political alliance with Pike county. Visions of Congress."

"In furtherance of these ends Mr. Hard started this unfortunate controversy. He seeks to make the judiciary the foot ball of petty politics and the Republic a political arena."

When the discussion concerning the reading of Madame Guyon's letters seemed to be growing unfavorable for the defense, during yesterday's hearing Judge Albani announced that there would be a recess. Judge Daguerre then said in low tones: "You dissonant are in." The sitting of the court was immediately suspended and great uproar.

As soon as the court convened, Madame Labarre began reading some of the letters. When he took up the second letter, he remarked: "You will find burning love, but nothing indecent as common rumors reported."

In the letter Madame Guyon was writing to the present Madame Guyon before he was divorced from Madame Guyon, referred to the happiness he would feel when he would press a nation's kisses over your dear body."

While the reading was going on, Madame Guyon was heard to say: "My dear little Riri, when I think of the future, I am very discouraged. What a life I have had! But one consolation: I have a thousand million kisses over your adorable little body."

Madame Guyon had been sitting upon a bench in an ante-room, where she was surrounded by the press. The physicians who thought she was suffering from a passing fainting spell, decided to give her a hypodermic injection.

Madame Guyon, who appeared to have fainted down on the floor, was revived by the injection and was taken to her home.

The others present at the trial were written in the court record.

Executive Committee objects. It contends that it is for the people to choose their own officials and not for political committees. "Mr. Hard's conversion to people made judges as against lawyers made judges is so recent that he must be taken on probation."

"Last Mr. Hard's inexperience in politics involves the party in more trouble. I earnestly hope he will not call in the Central Committee to make an endorsement for County Commissioner."

Judge Daguerre then said in low tones: "You dissonant are in." The sitting of the court was immediately suspended and great uproar.

As soon as the court convened, Madame Labarre began reading some of the letters. When he took up the second letter, he remarked: "You will find burning love, but nothing indecent as common rumors reported."

In the letter Madame Guyon was writing to the present Madame Guyon before he was divorced from Madame Guyon, referred to the happiness he would feel when he would press a nation's kisses over your dear body."

While the reading was going on, Madame Guyon was heard to say: "My dear little Riri, when I think of the future, I am very discouraged. What a life I have had! But one consolation: I have a thousand million kisses over your adorable little body."

Madame Guyon had been sitting upon a bench in an ante-room, where she was surrounded by the press. The physicians who thought she was suffering from a passing fainting spell, decided to give her a hypodermic injection.

Madame Guyon, who appeared to have fainted down on the floor, was revived by the injection and was taken to her home.

The others present at the trial were written in the court record.

For the purpose of lining up the Progressives of this county in support of the Progressive party nominees for state officers, and to arrange for the nomination of Progressive candidates for district offices, William E. Cadmus, of Peoria, Ill., candidate for the nomination for congressman-at-large from the state of Illinois and a personal representative of the Progressive Congressional committee, arrived in Portsmouth Friday evening and immediately went into conference with local leaders at the Washington hotel.

A second meeting was held in the office of Mr. Joseph A. Sullivan, prominent local Progressive, in the Masonic Temple Saturday afternoon, at which the conference was resumed. Fully a dozen of the avowed leaders of the Progressive party in Scioto county were in attendance.

Sentiment has not centered in favor of any particular candidates at this time, but it is an assured fact that Scioto county, being the most populous county in the district, will land one of the nominations. No nominations for county officers will be made this year, but there is a movement on foot to have the Progressive party endorse candidates of the other two leading political parties.

Announcement was also made that Mr. Cadmus will address an open meeting at the corner of Fifth and Chillicothe streets Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock to which all voters are cordially invited. Mr. Cadmus will discuss national and state issues in his address.
